

TALK BY WIRELESS TO EIFFEL TOWER

Message From Arlington Station, Borne on Air Waves, Is Received in Paris.

SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT
NO SURPRISE TO OFFICIALS

Previous Carrying of Voice to Honolulu Made Accomplishment Across Ocean Almost Certain.

Wireless telephone messages from the Arlington radio towers have been received at the Eiffel tower station in Paris, according to cable advices received by the Navy Department yesterday afternoon. The same message, borne on the waves of the ether, was also received at Honolulu, more than 3,000 miles out in the Pacific ocean, the message, spoken early yesterday morning, having been heard and recorded thus at the two stations, more than 3,000 miles apart. Announcement of this achievement of wireless telephony was received late yesterday simultaneously by the Navy Department and the engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, being made public last night at headquarters of the telephone company in New York.

Word of the receipt at the Eiffel tower station of the message spoken early yesterday morning at Arlington was contained in a cable from Paris, where, in spite of the urgent need for using the Eiffel tower installation for military purposes, the French government has permitted the installation of a wireless telephone receiver, though no transmitting device has been installed there as yet. The announcement was no surprise to officials of the Navy Department and the telephone company, as has been regarded as a foregone conclusion that the wireless telephony between the two stations, more than 3,000 miles apart, would be accomplished, and that the same means, much shorter distance, naturally would follow. The statement issued last night from the headquarters of the telephone company in New York said:

Statement Issued by Company.

"Transatlantic wireless telephony is an accomplished fact. Observers listening at the Eiffel tower in Paris have had speech sent out by engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company from apparatus developed by that company and the Western Electric Company and installed at Arlington, Va.

"The equipment used was that employed a few weeks ago in talking by wireless telephony to San Francisco and Honolulu. The antenna employed at Arlington was that of the United States Navy Department, which was placed at the disposal of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's engineers through the courtesy of the Navy Department.

"The announcement that speech has actually been transmitted from Arlington to observers stationed at the Eiffel tower, Paris, marks the conclusion of another chapter in the experiment undertaken by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. When Mr. Carley's engineers commenced work on the long-distance wireless telephone experiments observers with receiving apparatus were sent not only to Panama, Wake Island and Honolulu, but two engineers, H. E. Shreve and A. M. Curtis, were sent to Paris. Through the courtesy of the French government, limited facilities for listening at the Eiffel tower station were placed at their disposal.

Used for Military Purposes.

"Full appreciation of the interest and extreme courtesy of the French government can be understood when the great value of the Eiffel tower station for military purposes is remembered. Due to military necessity, the amount of time available for the wireless telephony experiments was so limited as to constitute a serious handicap to a speedy completion of the work. Added to this was the handicap resulting from the fact that all regular communications between Mr. Shreve and the engineers in Arlington had to be by cable, and was subject to long delays.

"Notwithstanding the difficulties of communication, the situation of the experiment was successfully transmitted from Arlington to Paris over a week ago, and as has been repeated on several occasions, Mr. Shreve and Mr. Curtis, who were sent to Paris, have been able to receive the message sent from the transmitting station. Mr. Webb did the talking throughout the experiments this morning.

"Simultaneously with the reception at Paris of the speech sent out from the antenna at Western Electric laboratories in New York and the Eiffel tower station of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company at the Pearl Harbor yard, Honolulu, Mr. Shreve, who was sent to Paris, reported that he heard the conversation throughout the entire experiment, and that Mr. Webb's voice was easily recognized.

Easier Conditions Existed.

Col. Samuel Reber, in charge of wireless signal service of the United States Army, discussing the wireless telephony message to the Eiffel tower station, has given out the following statement:

"The successful transatlantic radio telephony experiments last night, while possessing great historic interest as

ANAEMIC PEOPLE

Need More Iron in the Blood.

If you are anemic, you need more iron in your blood, and the telltale symptoms are a pale face, cold limbs, aching finger nails, poor circulation and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

Mr. W. H. Hodges of Kansas City, Mo., says: "I suffered from the effects of bad blood and was run down, dizzy, had headaches and did not feel like working. I had tried Beef, Iron and Wine without any help. After taking Vinol four days I noticed an improvement, and its continued use built up my blood and my bad feelings disappeared like magic."

"The bad effects of poor, devitalized blood cannot be overstated, and it is the peptonate of iron and the true cod liver extracts contained in Vinol, together with beef peptonate, that enriches the blood, improves the circulation and in this natural manner builds up the health and strength. Try it on our guarantee."

the first authentic instance of the transmission of audible speech across the Atlantic ocean, the least significant than the recent radio telephone transmission from Arlington to San Francisco and Honolulu. The distance covered was much less than from Arlington to Honolulu and the transmission almost entirely over water, a much easier condition. Had it not been for war conditions the engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company would have talked to Paris from Arlington before they did to San Francisco and Honolulu.

MARKET STANDS TAKE ON THANKSGIVING AIR

Big Yellow Pumpkins Help to Give Them Festival Appearance.

Lower Prices for Some Cuts of Meat and Varieties of Fish Reported.

Pumpkins, big yellow ones that make one think of pies and Thanksgiving, Casaba melons, glorified cantaloupes from California; Japanese persimmons, Hubbard squashes that are said to have the pie-making habit, are among the new fall productions that are now to be found on the benches of the fruit and vegetable dealers in the markets of the city.

Various fall varieties of lettuce are also to be found and the dealers today reported the demand for them as excellent. Watermelons that have been on the market doubtful list for some time, and huckleberries have finally disappeared from the benches, but raspberries and damsons, the dealers say, are still to be had, though they are becoming scarcer every day.

Some Meat Reductions.

In the meat markets roast beef, steak and roasting pork are lower priced, while smoked hams are 2 cents higher on the pound than they were a week ago. Fresh salmon and rockfish are also lower priced than they were last week, the drop on both being about 5 cents a pound, from 35 cents last week to 30 cents this. The egg dealers state that the wholesale price of absolutely fresh eggs has advanced slightly in price by past week, but that no change is to be made in the retail price. This morning the guaranteed fresh eggs are selling on the most stands at 35 cents a dozen, though some of the dealers were asking as high as 45 cents for henner eggs. The market dealers report the markets as being well attended and business fairly brisk.

The supply of fresh fish of all kinds was not over large on the market at the 11th street wharf this morning, and the dealers report an active demand. This morning there were many buyers at the wharf market in the early hours of the day and prices ranged about as follows:
